The PG Dip (HE) (T&L)

The important role that effective teaching and learning plays in higher education is increasingly being recognised internationally as well as in South Africa through national teaching excellence awards, teaching development grants, teaching audits, and the growing field of scholarship in teaching and learning (SoTL). The broad aims of the PG Dip (HE) (T&L) are to enhance the quality of teaching and learning in South African universities as well as to promote a scholarly and professional approach to development in the field of university teaching. The PG Dip (HE) (T&L) is a regionally taught programme and is the first collaboration of its kind in South Africa. It aims to:

- strengthen your teaching and assessment practice;
- introduce you to different ways of understanding teaching, learning and assessment in higher education;
- assist you to undertake research to enhance teaching, learning and assessment in your institution;
- provide opportunities for national and regional teaching, learning and research collaboration.

Admission requirements

A Bachelor's degree (or equivalent, as approved by the relevant university Senate) is required. Candidates should have a minimum of two years' teaching experience in higher education. The deadline for applications is 30 October 2019. Candidates will be notified of their acceptance onto the programme by 15 December 2019.

Programme structure and content

The PG Dip (HE) (T&L) is a formal honours level (HEQSF level 8) qualification. All modules are 30 credits each. The PG Dip (HE) (T&L) is offered part-time over two years. The programme comprises three core modules and a number of electives that are intended to address a range of specialised issues in teaching and learning in higher education. The programme is offered through a combination of 'block' contact sessions and on-line environments between the contact sessions for every module.
